

Why threading? Use threads for tasks that perform blocking IO, such as read/write files or socket connections. Create, Config, Use Thread Objects Import <code>from threading import *</code> Create, run target function <code>thread = Thread(target=task)</code> Config thread name <code>thread = Thread(name='MyThread')</code> Config daemon thread (background thread) <code>thread = Thread(daemon=True)</code> Extend thread <pre>class CustomThread(Thread):     def run():         # ...</pre> Start thread (non-blocking) <code>thread.start()</code> Join thread, wait to finish (blocking) <code>thread.join()</code> Join thread with timeout <code>thread.join(timeout=5)</code> Check if thread is running (not finished) <pre>if thread.is_alive():     # ...</pre> Check if daemon (background) <pre>if thread.daemon:     # ...</pre> Access or change thread name <code>thread.name</code> Access thread native identifier <code>thread.native_id</code>	Locks and Events Locks protect critical section, events are safe flags. Mutex lock <pre>lock = Lock() lock.acquire() # ... lock.release()</pre> Mutex lock, context manager <pre>lock = Lock() with lock:     # ...</pre> Reentrant mutex lock, protect critical section <pre>lock = RLock() with lock:     with lock:         # ...</pre> Semaphore, set num positions <pre>semaphore = Semaphore(10) semaphore.acquire() # ... semaphore.release()</pre> Semaphore, context manager <pre>semaphore = Semaphore(10) with semaphore:     # ...</pre> Create event, then set event <pre>event = Event() event.set()</pre> Check if event is set <pre>if event.is_set():     # ...</pre> Wait for event to be set (blocking) <code>event.wait()</code> Wait for event with timeout <pre>if event.wait(timeout=0.5):     # ...</pre>	Condition Variables and Barriers Conditions for wait/notify, barriers for syncing. Condition variable <pre>condition = Condition() condition.acquire() # ... condition.release()</pre> Wait on condition to be notified (blocking) <pre>with condition:     condition.wait()</pre> Wait on condition for expression (blocking) <pre>with condition:     condition.wait_for(check)</pre> Notify any single thread waiting on condition <pre>with condition:     condition.notify(n=1)</pre> Notify all threads waiting on condition <pre>with condition:     condition.notify_all()</pre> Barrier, set number of parties <code>barrier = Barrier(5)</code> Arrive and wait at barrier (blocking) <code>barrier.wait()</code> Arrive and wait at barrier with timeout <code>barrier.wait(timeout=0.5)</code> Timer Thread Wait some time then execute the target function. Create timer thread <code>tmr = Timer(5, task, args=(a1,a2))</code> Start timer thread <code>thread.start()</code> Cancel timer thread <code>thread.cancel()</code>
---	---	--